

Why I am a Christian:
in a scientific, humanistic, and atheistic world

by David L. Jones

Table of Contents

Introduction —My Biases, the Beginning of a Faith Journey	p. 2
Part I —Other people taught me to believe
A. My Parents	p. 6
B. Early Christians	p. 7
C. Christian Friends	p. 9
Part II —Faith describes the human condition
A. Secular Humanism	p. 10
B. 2 Main Problems with Secular Humanism	p. 10
C. The Bible describes the human condition (Genesis 1-3)	p. 13
Part III —God Created Science
A. Modern Science and technology is the result of a Christian world view	p. 15
B. The false dichotomy between science and faith is the result of some...
1. ...atheists and secular humanists making a God out of science	p. 16
2. ...Christians making science out of our theology	p. 17
C. What science says about God.	p. 18
Part IV —Accountability
A. Why religion, not only faith, is still necessary	p. 21
B. To what does the church and religion hold us accountable?
1. Gratitude	p. 21
2. Generosity	p. 22
3. A hedge against totalitarianism	p. 22
4. Religion creates community	p. 25
Part V —The Human Need for Mythology
A. What is Mythology?	p. 26
B. Dow we need myths today?	p. 27
C. Culture is a product of our mythology	p. 28
D. Why Christian mythology?	p. 29
Part VI —The Bible is a HUMAN book (in addition to a Godly book)
A. The Bible, according to Christians, is the inspired Word of God	p. 30
B. Some Christians have made a mockery of God and of the Word	p. 31
C. The Bible is a Human Book	p. 33
D. Addendum
1. Anti-theists argument against the bible and a point by point rebuttal	p. 34
2. Immoral acts and words that anti-theists attribute to the Bible	p. 36
3. Anti-theists accuse Christian theology of being immoral	p. 37
Part VII —The Values of the Bible
A. God created the Universe	p. 40
B. God created male and female in God’s image	p. 41
C. God created one law: love	p. 41
D. Humans desire that the universe be about “me”	p. 43
E. Restoring broken relationships costs the person who forgives	p. 44
Conclusion —The Shoulds of Faith in a Pluralistic World
We should....	p. 46
Selected Bibliography	p. 47